

English Teacher

Temporary Fulltime (maternity position for 12 months)

ABOUT THE POSITION

Shellharbour Anglican College is seeking to appoint a qualified and suitably experienced English Teacher with ability to teach Stage 6 for 2027.

We are looking for a dynamic and exceptional classroom practitioner with the ability to inspire our students. Our teachers need to be able to contribute to the all-round development of our students, implement cooperative teaching strategies and work in a team environment with a passionate teaching and learning focus.

Other teaching duties may include Christian Studies and Senior School Sport. All Senior School staff are expected to fulfil a role as a pastoral care tutor in our pastoral care system, to be involved in our co-curricular program and in our outdoor education and camping program.

In the appointment of teachers, we take into consideration additional interests and abilities and encourage applicants to include these in their resume.

ABOUT YOU

An energetic and authentic educator, committed to fostering a deep love of learning in students, you will have a personal Christian Faith demonstrating a commitment to Christian teaching practice. You will have the ability to integrate an authentic Christian worldview into your classroom teaching and set appropriate academic and behavioural expectations, and to lead others in these areas. You will demonstrate passion for teaching and learning as well as for differentiated learning and assessment that caters to the individual needs of all students.

A willingness to be flexible in approaches to learning, including exploring evidence-based and innovative pedagogies and new approaches to the teaching of English is essential.

You will have a sound understanding and knowledge of the New South Wales English Curriculum. You will preferably have experience of all levels of English including Stage 6. Experience in extension English would be highly desired but not essential.

Applicants should be willing to seek opportunities to contribute to the life of the College beyond their particular area of responsibility. A willingness to be involved in the College's very popular Duke of Edinburgh program is an advantage.

Key Selection Criteria

- Strong personal Christian faith and be a regular and practicing member of a Bible-based Christian church.
- Appropriate teaching qualifications in English and accredited with the New South Wales Educational Standards (NESA). Knowledge of current syllabus documents and proven ability to develop contemporary teaching and learning programs that deliver improved student outcomes and foster deeper learning.
- Be committed to employing evidence-based and innovative pedagogies, with an interest in IT integration and project-based learning;
- Demonstrate a passion for teaching and learning that utilises differentiated learning and assessment that caters to the individual needs of all students.
- An understanding of and commitment to student wellbeing
- Demonstrated ability to contribute to the co-curricular life of the College
- Well-developed written, oral and organisational skills
- An ability to work effectively as a team member
- A demonstrated commitment to professional growth
- Experience and knowledge of emerging technologies and be able to integrate these into a wide range of curriculum applications.
